About The Nautical Institute (NI)

The Nautical Institute's aim is to improve the safety and efficiency of shipping operations worldwide through the development of the safety culture and the promotion of best practice. The NI facilitates the exchange and publication of information and ideas on nautical science and seeks to establish and maintain professional standards.

The Institute is a thriving membership organisation and international professional body for qualified mariners with over 6,500 members in at least 110 countries. NI Branches have been established and operate in more than 40 countries to provide essential input to local as well as international professional issues whilst developing the knowledge of their national seafarers. The NI is governed by a Council, two thirds of whose members are actively engaged in sea-going operations, and is registered in the UK as a charity and a company limited by guarantee.

Eligibility – Corporate Affiliates shall:

- Place importance on membership of professional bodies (particularly The Nautical Institute) when placing job adverts or making personnel appraisals.
